

PA Bankers Association Honors The Dime Bank

Honesdale, Pennsylvania/May 9, 2016/ At the Pennsylvania Bankers Association (PA Bankers) Spring Summit meeting held on April 14th in Scranton, The Dime Bank and several Dime Bank employees were recognized for various achievements.

The Dime Bank's President and Chief Executive Officer Gary C. Beilman and Sandy J. Ames, loan officer at The Dime Bank, were recognized for serving 40 or more years in the banking industry. The 40-Year Club consists of bankers completing 40 or more years of service in Pennsylvania's banking industry who are regular members of the PA Bankers.

Chase L. Holl, a commercial lender at The Dime Bank, was recognized for achieving honor student status from the PA Bankers Advanced School of Banking. Honor students are selected on outstanding work on six home extension problems' cumulative scores. This three-year program is analogous to 200, 300 and 400-level college course study with the BankExec™ asset/liability simulation comprising a significant portion of Year 3. A variety of learning techniques, including lectures, small group teamwork, computer simulations, online learning, case studies, peer presentations, independent study and home extension problems keep students interested and engaged. The school also provides an unparalleled opportunity to network with other professionals in the banking industry.

The Dime Bank was also presented with a plaque for increased donations by Dime Bank officers and board members to PaBPAC, the Pennsylvania Bankers Public Affairs Committee. PaBPAC was created in 1974 to assist individual bankers and others in organizing for more effective political action, raising funds for this action, and making contributions to political candidates who support banking ideals.

The Pennsylvania Bankers Association, located in Harrisburg, is the state's leading banking trade association representing an expansive and diverse membership.
