Honesdale, PA / July 28, 2017 / The Dime Bank is proud to support The Cooperage Project’s Romping Radishes program, a series of healthy-living classes for children, with a $7,500.00 donation. Romping Radishes at The Cooperage is part of the Earned Income Tax Credit program as an Educational Improvement Organization.

This year, Romping Radishes classes have been offered at The Cooperage farmers’ market, where they host a variety of hands-on and interactive activities that are intended to inspire young people to think about the importance of maintaining a healthy diet and an active lifestyle. Romping Radishes also hosted a children’s rock concert and a workshop on Earth Day. The funding is also being used to create additional programming for third through fifth grade students geared toward growing their cultural understanding and to give students the opportunity to try new activities.

Executive Director Ryanne Jennings stated, “The Dime Bank’s ongoing support of not-for-profit organizations like ours is truly exemplary, it is a testament to your dedication to strengthening our community. We are honored to accept this contribution.”
